WEAVE YOUR DREAMS IN OUR CITY. DELHI

DELHI IS THE CITY OF GARDENS, wide avenues and imposing monuments. The eternal city is the junction where cultures from across the globe have gathered, mingled and created a synthesis unique to the capital of India. Forever. This veritable melting pot is the site for many qissas, stories, adab, shayari, poetry, cinematic magic and excellence. Our City has the proud legacy of having three World Heritage Sites in its midst.

Of late there has been a surge in the number of Indian and International film productions that have placed their tales within the majesty of Delhi. As a proud industrious city, the people of Delhi have quickly fallen in step with the challenges of movie making. A host of legendary Indian actors, musicians, technicians and filmmakers trace their journey back to Delhi. The cinematic infrastructure here is enviable and state of the art. A number of audio-visual and special effect studios, along with editing suites are based here.

The roster of blockbusters is increasingly being added to with a majority of films shot here breaking records at the box office. The ancient city is also a modern metropolis with an enviable metro rail service, a top quality international airport, pan-Indian railway network and an efficient, precise service sector, hotels and inns. Couple this with the unique sense of hospitality of the people of Delhi, global cuisine and gourmet fare, a thriving fashion industry and you find the secret to Delhi being the zone for quality cinema where more than 30 movies are shot every year now.

Delhi Tourism is going to implement soon a single window clearance system for filmmakers interested in shooting their films in our city. All legal formalities and permissions can be obtained with us being top drawer facilitators working in step and conjunction with directors and production houses. We are committed to easing the anxieties of each producer and add to their strengths in multi-dimensional ways, which thrives on mutual trust and respect. We are in service of Quality Cinema. Forever.
I AM OFTEN ASKED why Tanu Weds Manu, its sequel and Raanjhanaa look and feel different from other films set in Delhi and other northern parts of India. Well, I can say that Delhi has an important role to play in that. I grew up in a middle class Delhi family in Sadiq Nagar, near Siri Fort Road. The middle class that exists in colonies under the shadows of the tall trees and ancient, royal history of Delhi is what I call home. Although, Delhi has the most majestic structures and locations to put on film, my Delhi lies in old gullies of Purani Dilli, its people and its food. I honestly think that it’s people make Delhi as much as Delhi makes its people.

All my films have taken me to Delhi for some portions. It’s a joke within my crew that I pick my shooting locations around the best food places in Delhi. But how can you not go to Keventers if you are shooting in Connaught Place or to Al-Kausar when in Chanakypsuri. My stories and characters are earthy, rooted and about real people who go to the Delhi Chidiyaghar for picnics, to Purana Qila for a boat ride on a date and to Delhi University on sports quote for their education.

Delhi never gets old. Two filmmakers can shoot the same film in Delhi and both will look completely different. There is a reason so many films are set in Delhi and I have not even scratched the surface yet. You can’t exhaust Delhi. Like they say Delhi is not a place, it’s an emotion.
CREATIVE CENTRE

IMTIAZ ALI

DELHI IS MY CITY for growth and purpose. This is where my creativity found stimulus and wings. Having instituted Hindu College’s dramatic society Iteza, I was in constant connect with the wonderfully imaginative theatre traditions here. The only megalcity in the world where Hindi is the primary language, I was intensely touched by both, the sense of nostalgia and the city’s immense possibilities. The space where modernity co-exists with historic traditions and ancient monuments.

The knowledge of stage seeped through me like osmosis through my close relationships with performers from NSTD and Act One. Artists like Arvind Gaur, NK Sharma, Manoj Bajpayi, Piyush Mishra, Gejaj Rao, Shoojit Sircar and the absolute genius, Habib Tanveer informed my growth. From each I learnt the possibilities in language, the power of dialects and the essential importance of stage and costume design. My evolution as a film writer and director in every sense is directed from Delhi whose wide range of experience I draw from. It stays as my motivation in Mumbai.

The power of narration in each of my films primarily set in Delhi stems from the Dilwaliwallah’s monumental strength and their deep, felt emotions – which blow from hot to cold to tempered. They are the core I draw from as I evolve with my cinema. The people here have intense dramatic possibilities, exquisitely rich, to weave a strong narrative around them. This understanding works for me as a filmmaker. In my creative process I work with my intuitive understanding of them, forged through personal relationships. I work with Delhi, establishing deep, lifelong empathy.

My line producers further fortify our strengths and the first rate institutional support we get here has always eased my stress while filming. Delhi is blessed with a huge bank of multi-dimensional talent and infrastructure which I depend on immensely when I make my cinema. While my films are about an individual’s journeys, the story originates in Delhi. I am proud that my creative journey begins from our capital. This root I shall keep coming back to. Moving on from here.

IMTIAZ ALI has spent a significant part of his life in Delhi. Borne out of his close connects here are the critical and box office successes like Rockstar, Highway, Love Aaj Kal and Tamashaa.

CAPITAL CITY

RAJKUMAR HIRANI

FILMING IN THE CAPITAL has always been a pleasurable and enriching experience. Thanks to pk, I was able to explore the length and breadth of the city and was enchanted by the various historical monuments. The city offers a perfect combination of modernity and history.

The cooperation we received from the Delhi Tourism for filming in the capital city was admirable. We would definitely love to come and shoot in Delhi again.

RAJKUMAR HIRANI understands the beauty of Indian Cinema like none other. Starting with his MunnaBhai series he has written and directed some international megahits like 3 idiots and pk.
MULTIFACETED

NEERAJ PANDEY

DELHI HAS BEEN A GREAT HOST and forms a major part of most of my films. The place and its people have been accepting and cooperative throughout the journey of all our films shot here. The city has such a rich culture which invariably gives an amazing texture to the movies made here. From Special 26 to Baby and to the biopic M.S. Dhoni – The Untold Story - we've not only shown but also seen different sides of this city which has an exuberant vibe of its heritage and feeling of home.

The small galls to the plethora of architectural heritage, Delhi can proudly showcase in every form that it holds within itself a variety of arts, traditions and heritage that so welcomingly are allowed to be showcased in our form of art, Films.

NEERAJ PANDEY is the Writer, Producer and Director of box office sparklers like Special 26, Baby and MS Dhoni

DREAM CITY

AASHISH SINGH

DELHI IS A FILM MAKERS' DREAM CITY due to the diversity and the variety of locations available in the city. Delhi has always added a lot of scenic and cultural beauty to our films. It is a wonderful, cinema friendly destination where you get full support for film shooting from the concerned authorities.

THIS FONT OF CREATIVITY
RAKEYSH OMPRAKASH MEHRA

DELHI IS THE FONT through which my creativity flows. Born and raised in this cultural melting pot, I have always been deeply immersed in its historicity and our natural, cosmopolitan nature. I am this ancient city’s child who after being born and raised early in Purani Dilli, moved first to Lutyen’s and then to South Delhi.

I tell stories of Delhi’s wonderful, proud life, celebrated through the eons. The pains of partition told through the prism of the eventually triumphant Flying Sikh in Bhaag Milkha Bhaag. The all embracing swoop of the camera which after capturing the Purani Dilli’s panorama, settles on a praying congregation in Delhi 6. The bereaved mother walking with friends of her son leading a candlelight protest at India Gate in Rang De Basanti.

Different faiths worship in imposing, splendid spaces built in close proximity to each other. Delhi’s heady expense & monuments are the backdrop and DilliWalla the core whose Qissas I tell as a sensitive artist. In school on Lodhi Road, a MiG Aircraft is parked in quiet splendour. On the north campus we had conversations about democracy, exposed as we were to the fracassant emergency and its unsettling aftermath. They form the Foundation for Rang De Basanti. I am proud that this landmark film is the catalyst which made Delhi the happening site for cinema thereon.

RAKEYSH OMPRAKASH MEHRA has blended his love for cinema and Delhi through his immense and popular trilogy of films, Rang De Basanti, Delhi 6 and Bhaag Milkha Bhaag.

Delhi is integral to my stories. The eternal crossroad where the world gathers and finds expression. There are so many stories to tell of Delhi. I myself am working towards finishing two more films here. 98.2% which is my take on our education system. The second is an ode to motherhood in Pal Do Pat. Enthusiastic of my city’s promise I also yearn to institute a film making school here.

Over twenty films are shot here now annually and am happy our pioneering effort set the stage for the presence of an enviable infrastructure. A crew travels very light now. A number of studios are based here along with the finest equipment and cinema professionals. Delhi is emblematic of our country’s upward surge and the city’s young, positive energies are heartwarming.

The people here have always been accommodative of us. In the busiest locations where it is our crew which intrudes into their everyday rhythms. I am deeply grateful of their cooperation in what is inherently a very exacting situation for Film-making. I am glad that Delhi Tourism is the single window through whom all permissions can be sought. The apex tourism body has been steadfast and yeoman like in its active, fruitful association with filmmakers. I make but one wish. May more stories about Delhi be told. Where we all grew. Together.
The Open Vistas of the Indian Capital is a magnificent experience. Grand structures surround the Rajpath leading up to the Raisina Hills. The Indian Parliament, central government offices, art museums all form a part of the magnificent hub of our capital.
INDIA GATE
India’s Beating Heart

INDIA GATE is a memorial raised in honour of the Indian soldiers who were martyred during the Afghan wars and World War I.

The green lawns at India Gate are a popular evening and holiday rendezvous for young and old alike. Central Delhi in general is known for its tree-lined, wide roads driving through which is an amazing, profound experience.
FOR FILMMAKERS, Delhi has become the essential cinematic experience. Like New York, Toronto, London, Madrid, Moscow, Istanbul, Paris, Rome and Mumbai. Always a magnificent backdrop to weave a fine story in, Delhi is many cities forged into one.

Bearer of multiple identities, Delhi is singular in its virtue, beauty and intrinsic charm. Like all great cities, its cosmopolitan nature lets each language multiply, each idea to find expression, every individual dream, hope and realisation.

With the most famous mosque of Delhi, Jama Masjid in the vicinity, along with Sis Ganj Gurudwara, Jain Mandir and a number of temples, the zone is the citadel of cultural harmony. It also embraces all with its old world charm, hospitality and culinary delights.

Humayun's Tomb
In memory of a philosopher king
HUMAYUN'S TOMB was built by the widow of Humayun, Hamida Bano Begum and designed by a Persian architect, Mirak Mirza Ghiyas. The structure is the first matured example of Mughal architecture. Humayun's Tomb is a World Heritage Site.

This precursor to the Taj Mahal has small octagonal chambers, diagonal corners, arched lobbies and symmetrical gardens. The meticulous and splendid architecture of the tomb makes it one of the most alluring location to explore – a perfect backdrop that creates maximum impact.

LODI GARDEN is the beautiful park containing 15th and 16th century monuments made by the Sayyid & Lodhi Sultans, built within its well-kept lawns, flowers, massive trees and ponds. During the early morning and evening hours, the sprawling garden is a favorite spot for fitness regimes and those in search of calming solitude. Some of Yashraj’s major films like Chak De India! and Fanaa have been shot here.
The majestic fort of Purana Qila began its construction in Humayun’s reign in 1530 as the city of Dinpanah or ‘asylum of faith,’ only to be completed by Sher Shah Suri.

The Purana Qila (Old Fort) is an excellent example of Mughal architecture. Its three gates show a remarkable fusion of Indo-Islamic style of architecture. The lake at the Old Fort adds to its scenic beauty.

The garden as well as the layout is similar to that of Humayun’s Tomb. The tomb has several multi-chambered and spacious pavilions, called Moti Mahal, Badshah Pesand and Jungli Mahal. The tomb complex also has a madarsa, still operating today.
Tughlaqabad Fort
Rugged Immense Beauty

TUGHLAQABAD FORT stands on a high outcrop of rocks and was built to guard from the attack of Mughals. In order to enter the fortress, one has to walk a causeway which originally supported 27 arches. At the south end of the fort is an escape route leading out of the fort. In the western part are the ruins of a palatial building, further to which is a 15.5 meter deep water tank called Jahannum ka Rasta or Road to Hell. Close to the ruins of Tughlaqabad Fort is a small fort called Nai Ka Kot.
DELHI IS THE MAJOR CENTRE FOR SUFISM along with Ajmer. Nizamuddin Auliya was a mystic monk who lived in Delhi in the 14th century. He was the patron of thousands of souls in search of inner peace, providing comfort in times of excess and destitution. He provided balance to a city like Delhi through his spirituality. His example led to what Delhi is today, a majestic city with many faiths and saints. Amir Khusrau, the great poet and Sufi scholar was his prime disciple. Progenitor of Hindavi, the language we speak today. His timeless compositions illuminate our heart and soul even today. The great Shayar Mirza Ghalib lived here creating his immortal poetry.

This Dargah is where Hazrat Sahib rests now. This is the place visited by Hindus, Muslims, and Sikhs alike, who come like one family here to pay their respect to Hazrat Nizamuddin Auliya, for whom religious distinctions never mattered.

SITUATED IN THE HEART OF DELHI, the unique Dilli Haat is a modern uptake on the traditional weekly market, the Haat or Bazaar, offering a delightful amalgam of craft, food and cultural activities. It offers a kaleidoscopic view of the richness and diversity of Indian handicrafts and artefacts.

A plaza paved with stone and brickwork skillfully interspersed with grass, flowering shrubs and towering trees, plus a play corner for children, have conjured up an oasis in which visitors can explore at their leisure. Festivals promoting art, craft, food and music are regularly held here.
HAAT BEAT was the brief for the design of Dilli Haat, Janakpuri. A massive site with a large residential audience, in a part of Delhi that had very few places to go out to. We have promoted music all across Delhi through concerts and soirees. The idea was to find a home for playful music and give these homes a place to play with music. This was the bond where formal and informal shops come together to sell crafts and celebrate culture; to inject a new life into this part of Delhi and be its rhythmic ‘heart beat’.

Lovingly touched by the hardworking gardeners, Mafis, experts, architects and artists, the Garden is an achievement in modern times. An amphitheatre, a sculpture park, water fountains, undulating walkways in tune with the Aravallis. All features where spectacle can be created through silence and quiet.

The Indian film industry has a wide and an ever growing audience spread all across the globe. The Film Industry is, therefore, one of the best mediums for promoting tourism in India. Shooting in India is not only convenient as compared to foreign locations like Switzerland, but is also quite budget-friendly. Talking about India, Delhi is among one of the most preferred locations to shoot at. Delhi has undoubtedly become a hub for film shoots. In the last few years, Indian film makers have flocked to the capital. It has become a fixture in Indian Cinema, with storylines being increasingly set here.

REASONS WHY DELHI IS ONE THE BEST CITIES FOR SHOOTING FILMS

Delhi is economical to shoot in and permissions are easy to get:

Shooting in Delhi has been made easier with Delhi Tourism's very own Film Shooting Facilitation Cell. One need not get in touch with intermediaries and multiple agencies to get permissions to shoot at various locations with the soon to be implemented Single Window Clearance by Delhi Tourism. All one needs to do is get in touch with us and the process would be taken forward efficiently and with alacrity.

MARKET ASSOCIATIONS NOT A HURDLE

Delhi's market associations allow film shootings without any problems. Chandni Chowk is one of the oldest markets which is widely seen in movies shot in Delhi. If a scene is set inside a restaurant or within a marketplace, one can easily get the shoot done in Delhi. The only condition owner's keep is that the restaurant or shop's name should appear on the screen.

DELHI & NCR HAVE A MULTITUDE OF BACKGROUNDS AND BACKDROPS

Delhi is like a wide stage where film makers can come across from varied backgrounds to tell their intimate, personal stories. One can show any kind of situation in Delhi and NCR, for the region provides all sorts of backdrops from the lower middle class family of Fakrey, and the Lajpat Nagar Punjabi family with the Daryaganj fertility clinics of Vicky Donor to Aisha's posh locales. Delhi is perfect for all kinds of shooting scenes. If a filmmaker wants to shoot in college campuses, they go to North Campus. And for a typical Delhi look, film-makers prefer the Old Delhi area. Delhi has a solution for everyone's demands.
Delhi Tourism offers

- Delhi Tourism has been nominated as the Nodal Agency for facilitating film shootings in Delhi by Govt of NCT of Delhi. The soon to be implemented Single Window Clearance Mechanism of Delhi Tourism makes it convenient for the Film Producers to get shooting permissions as there is no need to contact multiple agencies to shoot at various locations. Film makers can send in their applications directly to Delhi Tourism stating the desired locations to shoot at and the Film Shooting Facilitation Cell Delhi Tourism will pursue the application further.

- Delhi Tourism can also facilitate for Air bookings, Hotel Accommodation, Ground Transport and Catering Support for the entire film unit in Delhi.

Dilli Chalo
Cinema Chronicles. Imagine

DELHI IS AN OCEAN OF FABLES, TALES AND STORIES. Of people and homes, emperors and dynasties, darbars and mehfilis. Layers upon layers of meaning, understanding and ideas in evolution have found voice and expression here through time. Those who chose to dive in will find splendid pearls of knowledge, wisdom and growth within our marvel. The chroniclers of Dilli, the ancient city, have painted a vivid picture through words and visuals, prose and poetry. From the mythic Mahabharata to the magnum opus Gandhi, a grand tapestry of the lives of the capital's virtuous men and women and their triumph against overwhelming odds have won over people by their millions. To guide and inspire them. To mesmerise, to hold them captive and then find them release. Towards liberty, harmony, joy. Such is the magic of stories. Such is the magnificence and splendour of Delhi.

In modern times cinema has become the repository of human experience. The medium through which all modes of creativity and art find form and meaning. Cinema documents us and we are the bearers of all that is excellent within the moving image on the silver screen. From music to colour, from composition to art, from architecture to space, all that epitomises what is excellent within man, woman and the cosmos at large finds its vehicle in cinema. The mythic, mystic, magic beauty and grace of earth’s passage lies embedded, eternal in cinema. Just like the grand emperor’s vision in architecture which stand for centuries, cinema has found us for eternity. We have found the cinema. The ultimate democratic symbol. The forebearer of our sorrow and our joy and happiness.

Sitting invisible within the darkened cinema theatre we find ecstasy and interconnectedness with fellow travellers. Each sharing and dipping into our collective’s agony and ecstasy. The laughter that rings out through comedy.

Ageless:
Delhi has been home to cinema for long. One black & white classic that readily comes to mind is the Dev Anand-Nutan comic masterpiece Tere Ghar ke Samne.

Set in Delhi, this triumph of wit brought two contrasting yet typical Delhi families to ecstatic life. Brilliantly acted by an ensemble cast and helmed by the genius Vijay Anand, this homage to Delhi stands the test of time. Above is the sparkler scene from the film shot at the Qutub Minar in which the couple find love singing Dil Kaa Bhanwar kare Pukar.
The tears which well up through tragedy. The gap of shock at a perfect horrifying moment. All together, Nirvana in three hours woven around an interval. Through stories of people within a context and space. Of a locale and people belonging to the city. We are thus glad that cinema is finding Delhi to be the ideal destination. The ancient city, the ultramodern megapolis. Delhi and Cinema complete each other. Through the city’s grand expanse and by the kind generosity of the capital that has welcomed one and all to make him and her its own. The grand family of the DilliWalleh. For us, the guardian of each person’s passage through Delhi. the fact the both the Indian and World Cinema finds in Delhi the ideal destination to weave in their story, provides us great joy coupled with a huge sense of responsibility.

For filmmakers, Delhi has become the essential site. Like New York, Los Angeles, Toronto, London, Madrid, Moscow, Istanbul, Paris, Rome and Mumbai. Always a magnificent, cinematic backdrop, Delhi is many cities forged into one. Bearer of multiple identities, Delhi is singular in its virtue, beauty and intrinsic charm. Like all great cities, its cosmopolitan nature lets each language multiply, each idea to find expression, every individual dream hops and realisation. Delhi allows for variety, like spice, like colour, like musical notes. That sores into the skies and spread wide. Delhi Tourism is the window through which filmmaking in Delhi finds freedom of expression and movement. We are forever conscious of our intrinsic, vital role within the world of cinema.

Evocative
The brilliant crafted and acted Sparsh is landmark cinema made in Delhi. Directed by Sai Paranjape and acted by the brilliant Naseeruddin Shah and Shabana Azmi the film is now a cult classic.

Consider this. In last five years alone over 100 films have been shot in Delhi. Each one different, made in multiple languages. Each not bound by formula. Most of them huge box office successes. This is because Delhi allows for each flight of fancy which finds insights through the kaleidoscopic bag of stories. The eponymous Piku from Chittaranjan Park, Shruni from Punjabi Bagh in Band Baaja Baaraat, Geeta of Lutyen’s Delhi in Masaanor Khwaishein Aise. Sonia from South Delhi in Rang De Basanti are each more than a character from a movie. The liberation of Rani in Queen, Datto in Tanu Weds Manu Returns, the resilience and power of each of the 3 professionals in Pink. Each exemplify the women of Delhi. Pierce, independent, proud. Each woman signifies an epic struggle against great odds providing the men around them justifications and inspiration to reach out and find completion. A pride in their identity.

The grand families in Yash Chopra’s sweeping romance dramas, like our epics, are symbolic of the larger picture. From the theme of separation and unity in the early 1960s Waqt, to the simmering anger within Triishul they each serve as a metaphor of the prevailing era. When the grand balladeer turned his attention to unrequited love in Kabhi Khushi, Silsila and Chandni, Delhi becomes integral to the story. But then Yashji was continuing in the footsteps of his elder brother B.R. Chopra Son who had made Delhi the site of some important pathbreaking cinema in the rather diverse Dharti Putra and The Burning Train. It is in this spirit that Yashraj Film walks in the well laid out tradition of its forbears of filming in Delhi. Through a bouquet of films like Band Baaja Baaraat, Chak De India, Mardaani, Fanaa and Sultan. The famous cinematic duo of James Ivory and Ismail Merchant also worked here.

If we consider the pantheon that constitute the film industry, a host of famous personalities have spent significant part of their lives here. From the Dada Sahib Phalke award winner, the master Director & Actor Manoj Kumar to the living legend, Amitabh Bachchan. From the dreamgirl Hema Malini to the megastar Shahrukh Khan. From thespians like Naseeruddin Shah to Om Puri to Manoj Bajpai to Saurabh Shukla and Piyush Mishra, each have earned their acting chops here. The existence of National School of Drama has always provided a wealth of excellent talents who have gone on to create a major niche for themselves. The long standing theatre tradition has given us some great actors whose nuanced performance has won our hearts many times over. Think Zohra Sehgal, Rohini Hattangadi, Surekha Sikri, Suhasini Mulay, Nandita Das, Tapasvi Pannu and Uttar Baokar. These are the women of substance who have been known for their exemplary performances. Immaculate Actors like Balraj Sahni, Manohar Singh in the past and Irrfan Khan, Sanjay Mishra and Nawazuddin Siddiqui in the present, they all have started their journeys here. Delhi is proud of their achievements.

The fact that a number of major film directors have evolved in Delhi, the city becomes the great stage for the story they tell. From Kabir Khan in Bijrangi Bhaijaan to Anurag Kashyap in Dev D. From Rakesh Omprakash Mehta in Rang De Basanti, Delhi 6 and Bhool Bhulaiyaa to Tigmanshu Dhulia in Shor in Six, From the masterclass Aankhen Delhi’s director Rajat Kapoor to the intrepid Dibakar Banerjee with his evolved satirical wit in Khosla Ka Ghosla and Oye Lucky, Lucky Oye! The creators have shown a remarkable flair in which the story emanates from the roots of Delhi. Their passage goes through Delhi’s historic sweep of the old cities, its monuments, gallias and avenues. Important directors like Mani Ratnam and Raj Kumar Hirani have repeatedly found in Delhi the site where their imagination flowers. In films like Dil Se, Mouna Raagam, Three Idiots and PK, Delhi is the verdant ground from which dreams find fruition. Imtiaz Ali from Love Aaj Kal to Highway to Rockstar and Tamasha locates his movies in Delhi to find resonance of the love of today reaching far and wide. Meera Nair made the wonderful whimsical Monsoon Wedding in the city and the comic caper Fukrey too was based here. Sai Paranjape with her 1980s classics Sparsh and Chashme Buddoor created a major splash with her highbrow yet reachable movies. Shoojit Sircar with his Vicky Donor, Piku and Pink etched a delightfully nuanced portrayal of people of all providence who call Delhi their home. Manish Sharma first with Bend... and then with Pari chose the city’s expanse to find well etched characters here. The magic of each director’s storytelling has been forged by the distinct identity and flavour of Delhi.

One thing which may have been missing in the past is now firmly present. That is the existence of state of the art infrastructure and personnel trained by the finest. Thanks to the number of Indian and International film projects which have taken off here, Delhi is now regarded well for its array of high end equipment, audio and television studios, dance academies and theatre groups. Each of these entities nurture their talents well, so that whenever a travelling studio heads to Delhi they will find a well laid out foundation waiting for them. Exceptional hardworking talents well cognisant of the grind, the economics and the value of the moment. Efficient and evolved talent not only for Indian productions but who have also worked with great results in major international movies like The Householder, Eat, Pray, Love, Holy Smoke and the blockbuster The Day After Tomorrow.

Delhi Dreams on, Plays On. Through its six seasons and seven incarnations. With its ancient and modern monuments. With the grace of its remarkable, affable, industrious people. Working hard to realise their dreams, aspirations, assertions and aspirations. Through their food, dance, music, culture, fashion, writings, paintings, sculptures, visions. Each passage brings about the opportunities for immaculate dialogues, perceptive insights and a grandeur in movement. They all come naturally to you in Delhi. Cascading over all of us to find monumental experiences and flight for imagination. Each essential for Cinema.

Our list is long, not exhaustive, for Delhi and our movies. We know that many stories remain to be told emanating from our home. Delhi Tourism will be that ideal partner in this journey of chronicling. For big and small cinema. For spectacles like Gandhi, Sardar and Baby to the immense, heartwrenching tale of Titli. In each case we offer our services to ease the exacting process of film making. We are at one with the vision of the director because we understand the centrality and importance of cinema in our lives. We seek confluence and synergies that works hard for the completion of each endeaver. So that the celluloid shines on the silver screen. To dazzle audiences worldwide. With wishes from the most beautiful city. May many more stories be told. In Delhi. Through Us at Delhi Tourism and You, the Filmmaker.
